

Families play an important role in a child's education and should be involved in the classroom and learning environment.

Understanding where a child should be developmentally is critical to a student's learning.

Teachers do more than teach, they encourage, support, and love.

Unique and different learning styles need to be embraced for ALL children to learn.

Real learning is done through learning experiences that are hands-on and interactive.

Education is a life long journey and kindergarten is the beginning of that journey

I believe that children are the future and need to be given as many opportunities to learn as possible. As a teacher, it is my job to supply these opportunities through hands-on experiences, knowing what the children are developmentally ready for, and embracing all learning styles. It is my job to teach, encourage, support, and care for your children. I believe that ALL children are capable of learning and that education is a life-long process.
